Required of All Nurses.

The above pledge known as the "Florence Nightingais Pledge," and which is required of graduate nurses in many of the training schools of this and other countries was taken last evening in St. Mark's cathedral by the five young women who received their diplomas as graduates from St. Mark's Training School for Nurses. It is the first time in the history of St. Mark's Training school that the pledge has been taken by a graduating class, but it will hereafter be a part of each commencement programme. The pledge was read by Bishop Spaiding Just before he conferred diplomus upon the graduates and presented them with their pins.

Hundred Members Meet at Logan.

President Joseph F. Smith of Mormon Church Guest of Honor.

Luncheon Served the Family at B. Y. College, Covers Being Laid for 150 People.

Special to The Tribune.

LOGAN, Utah, June 1—The Brigham Young association is in session here to-day. A hundred representatives of the family came from various sections on the regular train last night, Seymour B. Young heading the company, Joseph F. Smith being the guest of honor. The company was met at the train by President Joseph Morrell and a great concourse of people.

Met. by Rend.

Met by Band.

Met by Band.

As the train drew up the Brigham Young college band struck up and echoed Logan's greeting in sweet music. The visitors were hurried to carriages in waiting and quickly whirled away and located among the numerous friends of the great Young family.

President Joseph F Smith was taken in charge by Joseph Morrell whose guest he and his wife are. This morning the company was taken in carriages up the Logan canyon, returning by the Agricultural college, where a visit of inspection was made, after which the Brigham Young college was inspected, where uncheon was served, covers being laid for 150. Here also the family reunion occurred, the special features of which are not available, it being of a private character.

The concluding service in the celebraacter.

The concluding service in the celebration was held at the Tabernacle this evening. The house was packed. The programme was a miscellaneous one Among the speakers were Melvin J. Ballard, Elder Seymour B. Young, Apostle Francis M. Lyman and President Joseph F. Smith.

Believes in Commercialism

F. Smith.

Believes in Commercialism.

Mr. Ballard spoke in behaif of the Commercial club, culogizing Brigham Young as a great commercial leader, who by his gentus made possible the success of the Mormon people. "We propose to follow him in this and do not complain about commercialism as some do. So also we do not complain of those who follow him because they engage in and show us the way in commercial life, but will uphold them."

President Joseph F. Smith began in a quiet halting way, as though feeling tired, and looking old, but as he proceeded in his description of Brigham Young he grew animated and stronger, words coming more readily. His whole manner soon changed and became greatily animated as with swinging arms and towering frame be thundered his words with full voice and volvement emphasis. "If there is a person on earth that loves Brigham Young more than I do, I should feel ashamed of myself." Describing the material works of Brigham Young, he calogized him for his success, attributing it to God, the material prosperity of the church being God's will. He said the Mormon people are to become the richest people on the earth, and the church the wealthlest organization in the world, giving as his reason that God's work is not to be done by conquest, but by purchase. He said he expects to live to see the day when this shall come about, if not in the body, then out of it, though he thinks he will live to see it.

Says Mormons Are Independent.

Says Mormons Are Independent.

Rising into great vehemencs of expression he said: "We are the most independent people on the face of the earth. The day will come when there will be no poor among us; when the church will save money. The church must be redeemed with money by purchase and not by conquest. We are today independent of all the world. Our children know more than the brightest most learned most scholarly of the earth. They know more about true religion than all teachers in the world and all their Biblies. They know baptism for the dead and the resurrection and other things the world does not like. That is why they persecute us. Their craft is in danger. They fear us, but their craft shall perish and we will go forward."

Excorlates the Saints.

Excorlates the Saints.

He exceptated the Saints for indiffer-

He excorlated the Saints for indifference, carelessness, worldliness and darkness because they thus hinder the progress of God, stating that the Lord cannot use such. Then he shouted, "Give glory to God for Brigham Young, for what he did was the work of God, and those who follow him are doing God's work."

This is commencement week for the New Jersey academy. The baccalaureste sermon was preached by Rev. N. E. Clemmenson on "Silent Influence." Last night the annual address was given by Rev. G. W. Martin, D. D., on "How the Oregon Trail Became a Road." The lecture was of unusual interest and made clear the fact that the trail had become a road by 1843, Americans thus having opened the way for the later coming of the Utah ploneers.

The exercises took place this evening at the Presbyterian church and were of the usual character. This is the twenty-seventh commencement service since the founding of the school by Rev. Calvin M. Parks. The principal, Prof. I. N. Smith, is relinquishing his position to take up his residence in southern California.

OLD MARSAC MILL. Landmark in Park City Will Soon Be

Razed to Ground. to The Tribune

Special to The Tribune.

PARK CITY, June 1.—The work of completing the tearing down of the old Marsec mill will be commenced in a few days. William Harwood has taken a contract on this work and soon the old landmark will be no more. The large brick chimner, still stands and it is the Intention of the contractor to have tests made on the old brick for their silver values, as they will probably pay to ship to the smelters. The mill site will be out up and sold as city lots.

The Union Pacific engine on the High line set fire to a pile of straw belonging to a man named Williams today and caused no little excitement. The fire was extinguished without the aid of the department.

Work was commenced this morning upon much-needed repairs at the Washington and Lincoln school buildings. It is the intention of the trustees to fit up the attle in the Washington building for offices and for stores-complete books. This will inable them to use the rooms now used for this purpose for school-rooms and relieve to a great extent the crowded condition of the building. At the Lincoln building another exit will be put in, in occordance with the city ordinance, and the floor of the build-room will be cemented, rendering this room practically fire proof. Sanitary tolicies will be installed in all the buildings, an improvement which has been much needed for some time. A new gymnosium is also planned for the high school, as the room now used for that purpose is inadequate.

The Alumni association of the Park City bits school will hold a meeting in Sutton's hall tonight to admit the my graduated

GOOD ROADS CONVENTION. One Held in Provo Was Not Largely Attended. Special to The Tribune.

Special to The Tribune.

PROVO, June 1.—The Good Roads commission arrived late last evening. Mayor Roysion arrived late last evening. Mayor Roysion arrived late last evening. Mayor Roysines, on behalf of Provo and Utah county, welcomed the guests in a short speech, which was responded to by Col. Moore, president of the association.

A committee of three was named on resolutions, as follows: James Clove, chairman, Joseph W. Dunn and F. W. Taylor.

The following-named gentlemen were named as a committee on organization and order of business. William M. Roysines, chairmans A. L. Booth, Mayor Frank Boyer, Andrew Knudsen and County Commissioner Walker.

Owing to the lateness of the hour and failure to get the electrical connection, very few of the stereopticon views were shown.

The niseting to lay at 2 o'clock had a slim attendance, but those who were there were well paid for going. Col. Moore, president of the association, was the principal apeaker, and among many good things said. Mr. Moore stated that he heard a prominent Utah citizen say that good roads would pay better than hanking or merchandizing. He referred to Switzerland and her beautiful roads, and said that tourists who went to that country were nitracted more by the roads than any other one thing, and that the people of the United States spent about $30,000.000 in sightseeing in Switzerland.
